To Whom It May Concern,

I have known Jacqueline Loh since January 2008. She has led several healing prayer services at St. Mary's parish, where I am pastor. The last service was in May 2010. I presented testimony on Mary in my life and in the life of some of our parishioners. She gave a teaching on Mary, priesthood and healing. This was followed by the healing prayers. She is very concerned about tying together healing and evangelization, and the sacraments. We had confession and adoration during that evening of healing prayer.

I have received prayer from her many times. I saw her ministering to a Dominican priest, Fr. Tom Kraft, O.P. in Seattle, just one week before he died. It was something I will never forget.

Being young and not intimidating, she can reach out to young people who are far from the Church. Our times call for people like Jacqueline Loh, who put their healing gifts, their personal experiences, and their faith at the service of the new evangelization.

God Bless you,

Fr. Pierre Leblond, O.P.
